This training will examine the Gorski model of recovery as a process of growth and traits. Participants will examine bias (both personal and societal) as barriers to a true “person centered” system of care while examining the natural evolution of a person in recovery as they heal emotionally, biologically, mentally, and spiritually. “Relapse” will be discussed as it exists on the timeline of recovery, what could be causing it and examine the philosophies that guide how we engage with people who do “relapse”.

As a result of this workshop, participants will gain a better understanding ...

1. of the Gorski model of recovery as a process of growth and traits;
2. of the word “bias” (both personal and societal) as barriers to a true “person centered” system of care; and
3. of the natural evolution of a person in recovery as they heal emotionally, biologically, mentally, and spiritually.
